

Member's Favorite Blog Sites

<https://mypatchwork.wordpress.com/> TeresaDownUnder

Many YouTube videos demonstrating quick quilt block-sewing techniques, with strip piecing and the like.

<https://www.justgetitdonequilts.com/> - JustGetItDoneQuilts

The blogger presents YouTube videos for sewing blocks efficiently, and has a great four part series on color selection.

<http://www.quilterblogs.com/> It's a summary of quilting blogs and gives you a quick snippet of lots of quilting blogs out there.

<https://suzyquilts.com/>

<https://quiltingjetgirl.com/>

<https://aquilterstable.blogspot.com/>

<https://quiltville.blogspot.com/>

These are four interesting blogs that offer good sewing information and tutorials.

<http://www.springleafstudios.com/>

A blog by a BoulderMQG member, which among other things, is beautiful visually, and has quilt-along, and color prompts for inspiration

<https://www.heidiparkes.com>

Heidi is focused on reclaiming materials and focused on mending.

<https://wisecraftshandmade.com/>

Blair makes patchwork quilts from used materials.

<https://www.lukehaynes.com>

Luke makes stunning portrait quilts using traditional and non-traditional techniques.

<https://pieceandpress.blogspot.com/>

Dan uses reverse appliqué to make wonderful stenciled quilts.

<https://SoScrappy.com/>

The blogger hosts a yearly sew-along, where each month is spent emphasizing one color (using scraps is encouraged). Sometimes she offers block patterns to use. In 2019 a new 5" block every Tuesday using the color of the month was offered (Tiny Tuesday). It's just fun!

<https://mariashell.com/>

A good blog for inspiration

<https://www.sewcanshe.com/>

This site has a plethora of free sewing patterns. There are many free bag sewing patterns.

<https://geometriquilt.com/>

This blogger posts a "Sunday Sketch" every week. These designs are fabulously modern. There are no patterns, but if you feel the challenge you can draft quilt patterns from these designs.